OLD OHIO STATESMAN.

We have this day considerably enlarged THE DAILY ONIO STATESMAN, and now print it on plain and handsome new type, and clear white paper.

In politica, THE UMIO STATESMAN is, in War as in Peace, for the Country, for the Countritution, and for a Union of equal States, with equal privileges, and with equal and exact justice to all its citizens. We are for the old Flag, with not a Star or Stripe erased, and the old Union as far as it is possible to restore it, and for the existing Constitution, in its spirit, letter and purpose.

and for the existing Constitution, in its spirit, letter and purpose.

Upon the coming events of the year, rest the hopes of the People and Government. We are in the midst of a bloody and protracted civil war. Its duration and close depend upon a wiser, truer and more patriotic policy than we have seen during the present Administration. We owe it to the memory of our fathers, and to the hopes of our children, to the future of our country, and to the best interests of makind, to change a policy which is drifting us farther and farther from the landmarks of our patriotic sires.

The Statesman will do all it can for those purposes, and hence, the publishers invite support and encouragement from all those who, while wishing for a good Newsparers, also wish to have a sound Constitutional journal.

a good Newspaper, also wish to have a sound Constitutional journal.

We publish a paper in which we seek to give the TRUTH. Our Commercial Reports, our Markets, our Political and General News, are carefully freed from sensation character, and we seek to make THE STATESMAN trustscorthy in every particular.

For News, for Instruction, for Good Morals, for Sound Political Sentiments, for a Steady Defense of American Institutions, Take, Read, and help to Circulate THE OHIO STATESMAN.

PETER MARTIN'S Patent Improved Air Furnaces.

For Public and Private Use

For Wood or Coal.

THE ATTENTION OF THE PUBLIC

is called to the above Furnaces, as they combine ventilating with heating qualities.

The inventor has, after years of experiments, succeeded in perfecting what he claims to be the best Furnace now in use. Among its many advantages over the ordinary Furnaces, are:

The small amount of fuel required to keep it in eperation.

Recping the rooms constantly supplied with pure, fresh air, drawn from Nature's inexhaustible stock
out of doors.

Large Air Chambers, avoiding the confinement of heat in heated walls and hot metal chambers, Improved Water Chambers, which everomes the great objection to ordinary Hot Air Furnaces.

The cestings are heavy, and strongly bolted together, guaranteeing durability under any degree of heat.

Particular attention is called to the SELF-REGULATING ARRANGEMENT of this Furnace, which has been pronounced by scientific men to be the CINGINNATI, March 17, 1863.

Mr. P. Martin, of this city, has constructed a "Hot Air Furnace" in the Second Reformed Church (corner Findlay and Baymiller streets), which has thus far given entire satisfaction. For efficiency in warming, purity of air, and economy of fuel, we can speak of it in most favorable terms. Its permanency and durability also seem to promise well. The plan of draught and ventillation is good.

From our experience, we can recommend Mr. Martin as an adept in the art of warming buildings, and as quite competent to give satisfaction in the construction of Furnaces wherever practicable.

SATURDAY MORNING, - - - MAY 21. Extracts from the Speech of Hon. William E. Finck-Upon the Resolution to Expel Mr. Long: Delivered in the House of Congress, on the 11th of April, 1864. I am to-day, as I have been from the beginning, opposed to secession. I do not believe that any such right exists under our form of government. I am to-day, as I have been from the commencement of this unfortunate difficulty, opposed to an acknowledgment of the independence of the so-called Confederate States. I hold to-day, as I have held from the beginning—in direct conflict with the distinguished gentleman from Pennsylvania [Mr. Stevens]—that these Confederate States are not outside the Union, and do not constitute a distinct and Union, and do not constitute a distinct and foreign nation. I believe, sir, I know, that my own con-

I believe, sir, I know, that my own constituents are opposed to secession, or to a recognition of the so-called Confederate States. I believe that the Democracy of the great Northwest, and the great Democratic party of the country, are not to-day, and have not been from the beginning, in favor of the recognition of the Confederate States. And although I believe that this unfortunate war could have been avoided by fair, just and honorable compromises between the two sections of the country; that the only obstacle which prevented that compromise came from the Republican members of Congress; and that to them is to be charged the defeat of the compromises offered by the lamented statesman from Kentucky, (Mr. Crittenden.) yet, sir, great armies are in the field; they now confront each other; we are on the eve of terrible battles, and I trust that whenever these battles do take place, the armies of the North will be successful, and that the old flag will be carried in victory wherever it goes.—
But, sir, candor and frankness require me be carried in victory wherever it goes.— But, sir, candor and frankness require me to state—and I declare it before Heaven and the country, as the earnest conviction of my soul—that force alone can not preserve the union or restore these States; that to the sword must be added conciliation, wise and prudent statesmanship, alas! such statesmanship as has not yet been displayed by this Administration. The people of this country require the inauguration of a system of conditions of the statesmanship as his batch both people of this country require the inauguration of a system of conditions of the state of tem of conciliation by which both peace and the Union may be restored.

This is the Hall where the people's repre-sentatives assemble. Let them act as become the representatives of freemen. Let us discuss every public measure in that manly spirit which should characterize the representatives of a free people. Sir, the gentleman from Maryland [Mr. Davis] has appealed to public opinion. We also propose to appeal to public opinion. We do not believe, and we are earnest in that belief, that the policy of this Administration can restore the Union. We believe that it is destructive of the best interests of this SEALED PROPOSALS WILL BE RE- every legitimate means, within our power, country. We are determined to resist, by all efforts, let them come from what quarter they may, to break up this Union, or pull down the pillars of the Constitution. Sir. I repeat it, we expect to appeal to public opinion, and at the ballot-box to see to it, that this Administration shall be turned out of power and men placed in the power of the Government who will adminster it in obedience to the Constitution. That is to be our mission in appealing to public opinion. Sir. have you ever considered the power and force of public opinion? Have you ever read in history how it has branded with disgrace and infamy the corrupt and unfaithful public servant? Have you ever read in history how it wreathes the brow of the faithful servant with the approbation and plaudits of a grateful people after he may have been stricken down by the hands of power? Sir, I am willing to trust to public opinion. Sooner or later it will settle all these questions right. Sir, if I mistake not the signs of the times, this public opinion, at the next No-vember election, will vindicate one of the truest, best and noblest men of this country, who has been most ungratefully treated by this Administration. Sir, we intend to appeal to public opinion. Have you ever witnessed its power and force? There is no man so high as to be above it, and he must be low indeed who is beneath it. It penetrates through doors of oak and bars of iron into the secret chambers of kings and princes, where its voice, if not obeyed is at least feared and respected. It whispers the words of warning and admonition into the ears of the ruler, who in the silent watches of the night tosses with sleepless anxiety on his couch to ponder upon its meaning. It is to that searching tribunal of public opinion that we intend to present the acts of the Administration and of this Congress. I warn you to beware of the record you make here. Let it be such a one as shall be sanctioned by the Constitution, and you need not fear the ordeal of public opinion. But on this great question of the rights and duties of the Representative, I ask to read from the same great speech which was quoted from to-day by my friend from Indiana, [Mr. voornees.]

In a speech which Mr. Webster delivered in the Senate of the United States in 1834, he thus describes the duty of a Representative:

 "But, sir, if the people have a right to discuss the official conduct of the Executive, so have their Representatives. We have been taught to regard a Representative of the people as a sentinel on the watch-tower of liberty. Is he to be blind though visible danger approaches? Is he to be deaf though sounds of peril fill the air? Is he to be dumb while a thousand duties impel him to raise the cry of alarm? Is he not, rather, to catch the honest whisper which breathes intention or purpose of encroachment on the public liberties, and to give his voice breath and utterance at the first appearance of danger? Is not his eye to traverse the whole horizon with the keen and eager vision of an unhooded keen and eager vision of an unhooded hawk, detecting, through all disguises, every enemy advancing in any form toward the citadel which he guards?

"Sir, this watchfulness for public liberty, this duty of foreseeing danger and proclaiming it, this promptitude and boldness in resisting attacks on the Constitution from any quarter, this defense of established landmarks, this fearless resistance of whatever would transcend or remove them, all belong to the representative character, are interwoven with its very nature. If deprived of them, an active, intelligent and faithful agent of the people will be converted into an unresisting and passive instrument of power. Sir, this is a right which we can not, dare not surrender, the right of unrestricted, free debate in this hall of the people's Representatives. And I say again, the day when that right shall be stricken down in this Hall will be among the saddest days in American history. We intend here as become men having due regard to the rights of our fellow-members on this floor, on all proper occasions within the rules of the House, to discuss all questions that may pertain to the interests of the people. What, sir, is left to a free people when they do not enjoy the right of free speech and the right of being heard in the halls of legislation through their representatives? Strike down that great right, and you have no other left worth battling for in a free country. On this subject I can not read anything so eloquent, so forcible, and so appropriate as that splendid declaration made by Daniel Webster in reference to the right of free speech. He says:

webster in reference to the right of free speech. He says:

"It is the ancient and undoubted prerogative of this people to canvass public measures and the merits of public men. It is a 'home-bred right,' a fireside privilege. It hath ever been enjoyed in every house, cottage, and cabin in the nation. It is not to be drawn in controversy. It is as undoubted as breathing the air or walking on the earth. Belonging to private life as a right, it belongs to public life as a duty, and it is the last duty which those whose representative I am shall find me to abandon. Almine the life is the life and the control of the life is the life in the life in the life is the life in the life is the life in the life in the life is the life in the life is the life in the life in the life is the life in the life in the life is the life in the life is the life in the li ing at all times to be courteous and tempering at all times to be courteous and temperate in its use. EXCEPT WHEN THE RIGHT ITSELF IS QUESTIONED, I shall place myself on the extreme boundary of my right and bid defiance to any arm that would move me from my ground.

"This high constitutional privilege I shall defend and exercise within this House and in all places; in time of peace and at all times. Living I shall assert it; and should I leave no other inheritance to my children, by the blessing of God I will leave them the inheritance of free principles and the example of a manly, independent and constitutional defence of them."

I desire here to say that I most fully adopt these sentiments of the great defender of the Constitution. The maintenance er of the Constitution. The maintenance of this great right of free speech is the last duty which those whose Representative I am shall find me to abandon. I honor that brave old defender of the Constitution because he uttered that language, which was the language of a free, untrammeled spirit in the discharge of a high duty.

[From The Chicago Times.] Disgraceful Affair-Stand Up Fight Between Two Demireps. Fights among women of the town are of frequent occurrence. They happen every day in the week, and are of no especial interest to any one except the parties immediately concerned. But when two women challenge each other to a field fight, and all the arrangements are made in accord-ance with the rules of the prize ring, it is a proceeding of such an extraordinary na-ture as to attract the attention of a certain portion of the community.

A disgusting exhibition of this character took place at the rural retreat of Con. Wager, near the Bull's Head, on West Madison street, on Saturday afternoon. For some time past a great deal of jealousy has been felt between two demireps, named Jennie Graham and Ida Brown, to a fellow who is as disreputable as themselves. On Saturday as disreputable as themselves. On Saturda morning the frail women met, and after as disreputable as themselves. On Saturday morning the frail women met, and after abusing each other without stint, finally agreed to settle their difficulty by a fair, stand-up fight. The matter soon became noised about until Clark and Wells streets were filled with rumors of the match, and preparations were made to witness it. At three o'clock a procession might have been seen en route for the Bull's Head, which has never had a counterpart in the Garden City. Arriving at the designated spot, the arrangements were soon made—a ring was formed, the parties denuded of a portion of their upper garments, referees and seconds chosen, and the fight commenced. It is stated that ten rounds were fought. The knock downs were frequent and are said to have been about equally divided between the combatants. The victory, if such a term can be applied to such a proceeding was gained by the woman Brown, who walked with the fellow who had been the subject of the fight.

It is reported that the principals in the disgraceful affair are to be taken into custody. It is to be hoped that the purishment they so richly deserve will be meted out to them.
